A HOPE TO CULTIVATE

In the still-sleepy depths of our hearts, Lord,
you are preparing today to dig a furrow with the powerful impetus of your word.

You will turn us inside out, through the voice of your prophets and that of your Son giving his life.
In this way, you will create space for the most tenacious seed in your garden: hope.

This is the seed that will withstand our coldest winters

and be the first to blossom when all else seems lost.

She'll be the first to prelude all the good

you'll inspire us to do, to share smiles and soothe tears.

But first, it must plant its roots, quietly and silently,

in the depths of our being.

During these forty days of humility, help us, Lord, to collaborate with you so that your seed, filled with your promises,

may bear fruit for the joy of the world.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Beware of angling for compliments, lest you lose God's favour in exchange for people's praise. - St. Jerome
