ICON OF THE SACRED HEART

The Knights of Columbus have a strong connection to the Sacred Heart. The Icon, blessed by Pope Francis, is travelling worldwide and we are privileged to have it here. When we think of the human heart, we call to mind the admirable qualities of love and devotion, as well as courage, faithfulness and sacrifice. When we think of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, we see all these virtues and many others raised to perfection. At the same time, the image of the Sacred Heart is not intimidating: rather it draws us toward itself. Though perfect, Our Lord's heart remains a human heart, and an accessible bridge between God and humanity.

REFLECTION

Really listening is deceptively difficult. The scene of a group of teenagers (or really, people of any age!) lost in their own minds, nodding along in the middle of a lecture or conversation but not really hearing any of it, has risen to the level of overused movie cliché for a reason. Our world is filled with 'conversations' that are actually no more than two people giving prepared monologues in turns.

True listening requires both serious attention and concerted effort. To really listen, we need to get out of our own heads; we need to set aside thinking through what we have planned later. Really listening asks us to put aside what we want to say and what we think should be said so that we can listen to what's actually being said.

Relationships are only possible with true listening. Our relationship with God is no different. We know the Lord's voice. Amid the noise of our world, the difficult part is finding the time to sit in stillness and listen.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Set a timer for 5 minutes of silence.
Listen for God's voice.
